Four Dwyer & Collora Attorneys Selected To "The Power List" of Massachusetts' Most Influential Attorneys

BOSTON (January 5, 2010) – Four attorneys from Dwyer & Collora, LLP have been named among the state's most influential attorneys by Massachusetts Lawyers Weekly.

According to the publication, the attorneys represent "...those people in the law who can get things done, who wield influence beyond the bounds of their job title."

The four Dwyer & Collora partners selected to The Power List were described by the publication as follows:

Thomas E. Dwyer Jr. - Has built litigation powerhouse while nurturing valuable political connections with likes of Bill and Hillary Clinton (bio)

William H. Kettlewell - Former federal prosecutor is on short list of lawyers the big wigs turn to when they're in trouble; in addition to sizeable wins in civil arena, he recently helped a Superior Court judge and prominent law firm partner dispose of their criminal cases (bio)

Jody L. Newman - Stalwart of Boston and Women's bar associations, she's also managing partner of one of the most politically connected firms in town (bio)

Kathy B. Weinman - Put her quiet behind-the-scenes persuasion skills to good effect as president of Boston Bar Association during court's 2008 fiscal crisis; married to Sen. John Kerry's brother Cameron (bio)

Dwyer & Collora, LLP (www.dwyercollora.com) is a litigation firm located in downtown Boston. The firm represents individual and corporate clients in business disputes, white collar criminal cases, employment law and health care matters.
